NEWS:
The joint de-snaring teams operated mainly in the Western Corridor during this period, while the migration is on the short grass plains in the south of the ecosystem. A second-hand Land Rover was purchased with funds from the Lion Recovery Fund to be used as a supply support vehicle to the de-snaring teams (and the FZS supported Livestock LE teams operating on motorbikes to control illegal grazing in the Park). This vehicle will provide flexibility and ensure that the teams in the field are well provisioned and supported at all times. In the next quarter a review will be made of all equipment being used by the de-snaring teams, and where necessary field equipment will be repaired or replaced. Funding support from the TATO members is still understandably slow due to the ongoing COVID-19 crisis. Most of the de-snaring monthly expenses are currently being carried by our Lion Recovery Fund grant to support these teams. We greatly appreciate their support during these difficult times. Kennedy House School in Usa River held a Swimathon and raised Tsh 2,353,500 for this programme.

Dried bushmeat, locally known as 'vimoro', is easier to transport. Donkeys are often used to transport the dried meat out of the Park. This picture constitutes several dead animals.

The Serengeti De-snaring Programme is a joint project between the Tanzania National Parks, Frankfurt Zoological Society and a group of committed tour operators, the SENAPA INVESTORS, working towards reducing the number of snares in the Serengeti National Park, which kill or maim thousands of wild animals each year. TANAPA fully manages the teams, through the Serengeti Operations Centre, with technical and logistical support provided by FZS, and financial support provided by the SENAPA INVESTORS, and other third party donors such as the Lion Recovery Fund and the Stadler Family Foundation.
